Second Phase Of Hospital Drive Opens

Confidence of success was high Sunday at a champagne reception for workers in the joint Eon Secours - Lawrence General hospitals fund campaign.

The reception, held in the auditorium at Bon Secours hospital was told that $2,433,000 of the $3,000,000 goal already has been subscribed.

Three Andover residents were among four workers presented awards for their exceptional efforts in the drive. They were Joseph L. Daly, 20 Judson Road; Charles E. Hughes, 7 Sutherland St., and Robert L. Gable, 35 Sunset Rock Road. The fourth recipient was Douglas B. Allen, personnel director at Lawrence General hospital.

School Budget Cuts Amount To $300,000

The school committee is in the midst of scissoring the school budget, but the superintendent told them he had not and would not discourage teachers from coming up with new ideas, even if they cost money.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert accepted nearly $300,000 in cuts with equanimity, explaining that he had encouraged teachers not to let the "hold the line budget" sentiment dry up the flow of new ideas in the system; he told them to leave to the superintendent and school committee the worries about which and how many good ideas can be implemented.

"If the flow of ideas dries up," the superintendent stated, "the system will quickly go stagnant."

$208,000 was cut from the expense budget last week, with the largest slice reducing the teaching materials budget from $447,848 to $350,000.

In cutting the teaching materials budget by more than $97,000, the committee acknowledged that they realized "this should be the year of teaching materials," since the system had held back on all but emergency purchases of teach-

Coles Flee Coast Quake

Robert A. Cole

Diana Cole

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cole, formerly of Andover, were forced to evacuate their San Fernando apartment when a strong earthquake hit the valley Tuesday morning, and a weakened dam threatened to burst and flood the area.

Mr. Cole is the son of Deputy Fire Chief and Mrs. Albert Cole of 49 Pine St. His wife, Diana, is the daughter of R. Milton and Schoolcommitteewoman Virginia Cole, 269 Highland Road

The couple called their parents Tuesday to say that they were safe and uninjured, and relate their experience.

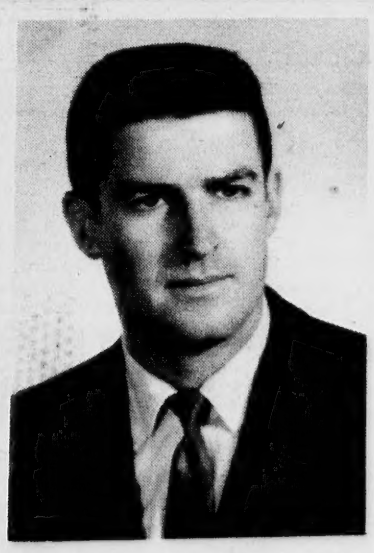

About 6 a.m. Tuesday, they were awakened by the motion of the building, and the sound of dishes and table lamps crashing to the floor. Shortly thereafter, local authorities notified them to evacuate their home. Although damage to their property was not serious, they were in an area which would be flooded if a cracked and weakened San Fernando Valley reservoir dam should burst.

Quickly packing a few clothes in a suitcase, they drove to a designated assembly area, where they would be assigned to some emergency shelter in a safe region, until they could return home. It was from the assembly area that they called Andover, where two sets of parents are now anxious for further information.

Flowers . . .

. . . can make an important contribution to the traditional funeral service. Not only do they denote respect for the deceased, but flowers can be sort of a personal messenger of sympathy and understanding to survivors. Their presence tells the immediate family that their friends are thinking of them and sharing their sorrow during their bereavement.

While many customs and fashions have undergone changes over the years, the use of flowers at funerals has endured. Evidence of floral tributes have been found in excavated tombs dating as far back as ancient Egypt.

Selectmen Take Look At Warrant

The selectmen have expressed support for at least two articles in the annual town warrant which would continue the status quo in town government.

At Monday's meeting the board devoted time to expressing approval or disapproval of articles which will go before the voters.

Members unanimously disapproved an article which would eliminate the open town meeting in favor of a delegate type.

The board also turned thumbs down on a proposition that the veto power of the finance committee at the October town meeting be abolished.

Chairman Robert A. Watters says that he feels the present form of open meeting which voters may or may not attend as they see fit has advantages over the system by which town meeting members are elected. This is the type of meeting existing in Methuen. North Andover, like Andover, holds open town meetings.

The selectmen Monday night went over the warrant and indicated their approval or disapproval which they will voice before the meeting. In making decisions on the articles, the board acts in an advisory capacity.

LWV To Hold Candidates Night

The League of Women Voters of Andover will hold its Candidate's Night on Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the High School cafeteria. All candidates for town offices have been invited. Thomas Cone will be the moderator for the meeting. With a new format this year, opportunity for informal questioning of all candidates will be provided. Mrs. Walter Hughes is the Voters Service chairman of the LVW of Andover and is in charge of the meeting.

White-collar workers will continue to outnumber blue-collar workers by more than 50 percent in 1980.

Deafness Institute

Clifford A. Lawrence, a native of Andover, who now resides with his wife and three children, at 16 Clark Road, Ballardvale, is the founder and Director of Deafness Resources Institute, whose purpose is to help deaf people overcome their handicap and thereby further their higher education.

During recent months he has been expanding and intensifying his activities. In October he conducted the Massachusetts Interpreting Seminar at Metropolitan Centers Inc. in Boston. He also co-ordinated the program for the Northern New England Conference on Deafness, held at Portsmouth, N. H. last Oct. 21-23.

Presently, in co-operation with Andover Institute of Business, he will conduct a 10-week basic course in Manual Communication for the staff and students of the Institute, for personnel of the Internal Revenue Service, as well as for any interested residents of Andover and vicinity.

Sessions will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2:45-4:45 p.m. at 90 Main St. The basics of signing and finger-spelling used by many deaf people will be covered and a certificate will be awarded to all who successfully complete the course.

Mr. Lawrence will be assisted in this work by Arthur G. Baker, formerly of Ballardvale and now of Newton, N. H. For additional information call or write Mr. Lawrence.

Troop 75 Camps Out

Last weekend's Boy Scout District Freeze-Out at Andover Recreation Park was great fun amid cold, but bearable weather. Toboggans were brought and the boys went down the runs until dark. At 8 p.m., all the scouts from the various troops comprising the Shawsheen District gathered at the Recreation building in front of a roaring fire and sang and were entertained by skits.

The following boys from Troop 75 participated in the Freeze-Out: Gregory Champagne, Mark Costello, Edward Caselden, Mark D'Annolfo, Phillip D'Annolfo, Keith Kenney, Kevin Kenney, Roy Hoffman, John Zemis, Jimmy Galbiati, Peter Doran, Billy Bruner.

Because of the recent virus epidemic, many other boys who were to have gone to the Freeze-Out were unable to go due to illness.

All scouts are reminded of the upcoming Board of Review, Friday night at the Doherty School gymnasium at 7 p.m. All who wish to advance should have their Scoutmaster's Conference before then. After the meeting, those boys who wish to ice skate during the sports' period are asked to bring their skates again. All others will play basketball.

PROPERTY VALUE

What is property value? How is property value determined?

Briefly, market value is determined by the price a knowledgeable buyer will pay for property in a certain existing area.

Certain factors influence market value. Property in a rapid growth area commands a higher price. Proximity to churches, stores and schools influence market value.

When you place your property on the market you determine the asking price. Your Realtor will help you. He knows the market value of comparable property in the surrounding area.

Your property also has a full cash value. The cash value is the replacement cost of your property as determined by the tax assessor. The cash value is the basis for tax assessments. It does not mean market value.

Consult your Realtor for more detailed information on your property value.

Stuck with the burden of selling your home? We can replace that burden with a qualified buyer! Consult JAMES T. Citizens' Forum Strikes Goals

Sponsors of the November Citizens' Forum on Education have given the school committee a detailed follow-up report of that forum's small-group discussions, and plan a second forum for Monday, April 5.

Mrs. Garry Stephens, co-chairman of the November Forum, reported that group's concensus for a return to a strong homeroom situation in the high school, to give each student a more individual experience in the increasingly large high school group, and to keep parents in closer touch with the student's progress.

The Forum's 180 participants also agreed on the need for a high school Parent-Teacher-Student organization, to improve communications and involve parents in their children's education.

The homeroom goal is for smaller groups, with the homeroom teacher serving as an active link between the student, his various teachers and the guidance department, and the home. With a reduced number of students, it was felt that the homeroom teacher could have the opportunity and responsibility to schedule regular conferences with each student's parents throughout the year. The groups favored heterogeneous homerooms, instead of groups within the same "academic track." "Self-disicipline" was mentioned again and again in forum reports, and students' growth in this area was seen as the key to the whole issue of student behavior and motivation. Many felt it should be the goal of the educational curriculum.

For example, to the question "Do we need more or less discipline in our Andover schools?", the concensus of the forum groups was: "The goal of any discipline is self-discipline. It was felt that the students need more responsibility at an earlier age. With the freedom to experience more problem solving and with a less passive kind of learning, self-discipline will replace discipline."

Some groups noted and approved the Andover system's recent steps in initiating training and more opportunities for decision-making at the elementary level.

There was also strong interest in providing more "experiential" learning experiences for students as well as academic ones, both on and off-campus; also for more parents and other members of the community to be involved in the public education process, as resource people the school could draw on either at school, or in their vocational-milieu.

Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert suggested the Educational Forum planners draw on the PTA's and PTO's for support, perhaps for co-sponsorship, and the committee noted that the Forum group's great contribution could be to attract greater numbers of community members to such forums, whether they be the superintendent's educational town meetings, or the next educational forum. Chairman Dr. Richard A. Katz urged a closer tie-in with the school system's structure, in order that forum findings be fed directly back into the system.

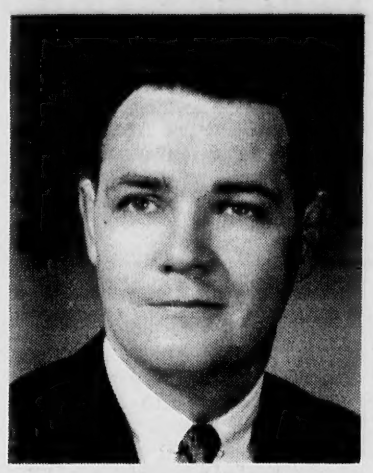

Topics for the April forum include questioning the wisdom of the "tracking" system, which starts at the 7th grade, means of evaluating progress and programs.

President's Reception

The traditional President's reception will be held at the Andover Historical Society, Feb. 15 from 3 to 5. Mrs. Barbara Sessions, who has been Curator of the Society since 1964, will be guest of honor at the holiday gathering. Past presidents and their wives will join President and Mrs. George W. Glennie and members in extending best wishes to Mrs. Sessions as she leaves Andover to take up residence in Paris.

There will be a short musical presentation at 3:30 by students of the Community Music Center of Boston. Miss Susan Hill, daughter of Mrs. Ralph H. Hill of Forbes Lane is Director of the Center.

Tea will be served at four o'clock by Mrs. A. Glenn Hanson and Mrs. Edward F. Stokham.

Teacher Conducts Class From Hotel

An Andover High School student and his history teacher flew to Washington to be guests at a two-day Senate-House foreign affairs conference on U. S. China policy last week.

The teacher, John McCusker, then carried on his Friday morning 20th Century American History Class by the high school's new special telephone hookup, which allows a roomful of students to hear and question a teacher speaking from a Washington D. C. motel, or a national figure visiting Andover High via electronics.

While this was going on the student, Bruce Need, 13 Glenmeadow Rd., was back in Room 207 of the Capital Building, listening to Andover's representative, Bradford Morse, who was a moving spirit behind the conference, and arranged the invitations for the Andover twosome, plus presidential hopeful Senator George McGovern and Senator Harold Hughes, and other luminaries on foreign policy - Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy, Senator Javits from New York and former Ambassador to Japan Edwin Reischauer.

According to Need and McCusker, all the Congressional conferees were in favor of US recognition and UN seating of the People Republic of China, but the lines were drawn between university professors at the conference and the government's "old China hands" on what to do about Taiwan. The professors, Need and McCusker agreed, were much less concerned than the politicians on the practical means of going about the changes in US China policy, and how far to go. A Johns Hopkins professor suggested just giving Taiwan to Red China, in "a wild talk," while the former ambassador to Japan emphasized the integrity of both states, by 1971.

How did the Washington trip ever come off? The high school reports that Student Activities advisor Jim Carroll read about the conference in the newspaper, with Morse as one of the sponsors, thought "Wouldn't it be great if someone from the high school could be at the conference, called former State Rep. Paul Cronin, who got in touch with Congressman Morse, who put in a word with an aide of Sen. Hughes, who was controlling invitations.

McCusker made plans to go, and arranged for the "world classroom" hookup to bring the experience to his class, Need heard about it Wednesday afternoon, when he was called in from track practice. Thursday morning, the pair were on their way with the tickets paid for by Supt. Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert's special budget for educationally profitable student projects.

Flexibility and quick response made for an educational experience that was not only exciting for McCusker and Need, but brought a sense of immediacy to current events for Andover High social studies students.

Supt. Seifert said the World Classroom hookup, a social studies baby, was an integral part of the high school's educational program, and he looked for other imaginative educational uses.

Memorial Hall Library

Henry Wyatt

Staff

Memorial Hall Library has been most fortunate to have a person like Henry Wyatt working for it for eleven years. Henry is that irreplaceable employee, the absolutely dependable, trustworthy, and cheerful runner of errands and messenger, par excellence. Officially, he is Assistant Custodian, and he always fills in when the senior day or night custodian is sick or takes a vacation. Most often you will see him on Main Street between the Post Office and the Library because he delivers and picks up the mail at least four times a day, and he makes one or more trips daily to the Town Hall. Other errands outside the library take him to the schools, to Chestnut Court and to special exhibit areas with deliveries of books. Inside the library, Henry delivers the mail and inter-staff memos, keeps each daily newspaper on its proper rack, takes care of equipment, moves furniture and books and helps the Inter-Library Loan office with its mailing of films and books to other libraries. Within the last week Henry has had a new job which brings much joy to all the staff and patrons, namely, that of building the fire in the fireplace each morning.

Henry Wyatt attended Lawrence schools and graduated from Lawrence High School in 1960 and then took the two year course at McIntosh Business School in Accounting. In 1961 he came to the library as a page. Henry lives with his mother at 29 Essex St. He makes no secret of the fact that his mother is the world's best cook and an excellent housekeeper. The two of them enjoy many activities together, and especially look forward to vacations at Hampton Beach. Henry likes to make things out of wood and is interested in electricity.

Ecology Corner

Something new has been added at the library which will be of interest to all Andover's citizens working for a better environment. It's a special section in the main reading room set up just for material and books on ecology. On the bulletin board we will have pertinent newspaper clippings, notices of meetings, cartoons and selected information on a particular phase of pollution and conservation. Below the bulletin board all new books on ecology will be on display, and this counter-top will be reserved for books on ecology alone. Within the cupboard, pamphlets and bibliographies and give-away material will be kept. The Environmental Clipping Service is in a filing cabinet just to the back of the Ecology Corner. Thus all information needed by our citizens and clubs will be in one place, all easier to find than ever before.

Film Program

The Film Program for Senior Citizens will be held on February 18 at 2 p.m. Anyone interested in an hour or so of movies, plus a cup of coffee, is welcome to attend. The place is the Baptist Church Assembly Room at the side entrance.

REPORT CARDS

Report cards showing the grades of students at Andover High School were issued on Wednesday.

YMCA League

By Frank Monette

Saturday's action in the Andover YMCA Basketball League showed many teams making their bid for top positions in the standings, with more than 3/4 of the season completed. The upset of the day came in the Pee-Wee Division, as the Lions surprised the previously unbeaten Cougars, who were 9-0 going into the game, with a tight man-to-man defense for an 8-6 victory to wipe out the only unblemished record in the 20 team league. The Junior Division found Ohio State ending the 2nd-half season standings in the upper bracket alone in first place with a 3-0 record, while in the Lower Bracket of the Junior Division, UCLA, St. Bonaventure and Jacksonville all ended in a tie for the top spot with 2-1 records. The three teams in the Lower Bracket met in a playoff during the week with St. Bonaventure playing Jacksonville Tuesday afternoon and the winner going against UCLA today to determine 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place. In the Intermediate Division the Pistons clinched the 2nd-Half Championship with a 5-0 record, with only 1 game remaining before the Playoffs.

The course is conducted in cooperation with Massachusetts Department of Education and offered to county residents free of charge.

ing materials last year, pending decisions on education programs by a new administration and a staff newly involved in a wholesale curriculum review. According to school administrators, a good chunk of the record sum of unexpended money turned back to the town last year came from this category.

However, in this year of the austere, the school committee told the superintendent, teaching materials could not more than double. Seifert said the school department could live with the cut.

The 1971 teaching materials budget covers new instructional systems in math and reading for all elementary schools, a big jump in teaching aids, such as teaching machines for math and reading, to supplement teachers' work with individual children, the teacher's inservice program, a computer center the superintendent is dickering for, to serve administrative as well as teaching functions, and the $10,000 contribution to the Greater Lawrence Mental Health Center, an increase to help support expected increase in service to Andover students.

Distribution of the cuts among items in the teaching materials budget was left to school administrators' judgment. The same was true of a $19,000 cut in the combined library and audio-visual budgets for books and AV media.

$60,000 for portable classroom requested by West Junior High was cut out, as not yet a pressing need, and the largest remaining cut cancelled out $28,000 which would have carpeted South, removed a partition there, further repaired and renovated Stowe, and spread paint in various places.

The salary budget presents fewer chances for the committee to use the scissors. The school committee is now negotiating with the professional staff; once they have agreed on a salary scale with the teachers, they cannot cut it. The school committee was able to make some cuts in the 1971 salary budget, mainly by cutting out $25,000 proposed for a math resource teacher in math, and staff for a summer project, and $14,500 to staff an expansion of the summer school program. Discussion of additional personnel, teachers, teacher aides, noon hour supervisors and tutors for the perceptually handicapped, were left for this week's session.

The committee also cut out $23,000 for the salary of an additional assistant superintendent for research and development.

Budget review sessions are worth public attendance. They reveal facts as well as figures about the Andover public schools, and the review is not always negative. The committee noted with approval increases in teaching material needs for art and industrial arts, saying it showed that more pupils were signing up for classes and making use of these facilities.

Shephard Made It

With a perfect splashdown in the Pacific Tuesday afternoon, the moon trip of Apollo 14 came to a great end.

NASA officials say it was the greatest - scientifically - of any moon shot. Of course it will take months - maybe years - to evaluate the full meaning of the trip.

It marked a great victory for Commander Alan B. Shepard of nearby Derry, N. H., who overcame illness and age to accomplish what he dreamed of ten years ago.

It was Shepard who first showed that man could be shot successfully into spacé and come back alive.

But before Shepard ever had a chance to ride into outer space, he was grounded by illness.

He never gave up, and remained in the space program. Since time doesn't remain still, Alan Shepard aged during the past decade and became the nation's oldest astronaut at 47.

Some of his colleagues were critical when he was picked to command the Apollo 14 shot. The charge was made that he was too old.

Yet, none could deny that even if he didn't have youth, he had plenty of guts and know-how.

During the Apollo 14 effort, Alan Shepard proved that he was a pro all the way. When things went wrong on several occasions, he kept his cool and overcame the problems that threatened to prevent a successful landing on the moon.

As the Apollo space craft came out of the sky in brilliant sunshine Tuesday hundreds of millions watched the proceedings on television. It was a great sight, a great triumph for the United States.

Indoctrination

The school department has been conducting a very worthwhile program these past few weeks.

A pre-school kindergarten program has been conducted at the education wing of the Christ Church parish house.

All of the youngsters registered for kindergarten for the coming year are attending one week out of the ten week course.

During the program, the youngsters are introduced to the programs they will be suddenly subjected to on a regular basis come September.

They are indoctrinated into the regular program, as well as the special programs, such as physical education, music, etc.

In addition, they are tested.

In this respect, defects are detected early and preparation can be made to correct them.

Through the efforts of the program, three specific areas are covered; An enjoyable introduction to their school life, anticipation toward the initiation of the educational career, and early diagnosis of deficiencies and elimination of possible frustrations.

Through it all, it is hoped that the first day of school in September will be filled with anticipation for these beginning scholars, rather than a tearful first day away from home.

It appears to be a very beneficial program.

Heartening

In these days of continually rising costs, it was refreshing last week to read the announcement by Phillips Academy that tuition rates would remain the same for the coming school year.

The Trustees of the Academy, after reviewing operating costs made the decision despite an operating deficit of $300,000 for the current school year.

A raise in tuition of $300 was initiated this past year.

Almost daily colleges and private schools throughout the land are announcing increases in tuition, as well as dormitory fees.

That Phillips is able to hold the line is, indeed, heartening.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

A recent news story concerning the subject of short weight food packages has caused some Andover residents to question the accuracy of locally purchased food items. The news release issued figures pertaining only to underweight packages. No figures were released covering the number of overweight packages.

During the past thirty days I have been conducting an extensive reweighing program of all types of consumables. All reweighings were conducted employing the "hundredth system", i.e., the pound is divided into one hundred equal units similar to one hundred pennies in a dollar. The use of ounces and fractions of an ounce have been discontinued in the sale of prepackaged meats. A figure of .50 represents 1/2 of a pound while a figure of 1.75 denotes a weight of one and three quarters of a pound.

The results of 714 reweighings of packaged meat, poultry and fish showed that 60 percent of the packages were correct and weighed as marked. 28 percent of the packages were found to be overweight and underpriced while 12 percent of the packages were deficient in weight. The underweight packages were caused by product fluid loss thru package leakage in the case of items such as; fish, poultry and corned beef. Maximum monetary overcharges amounted to .03 in two instances while remaining overcharges amounted to no more than .01 cents per package. All underweight amounted to no more than .01 cents per package. All underweight packages were removed for reweighing and repricing. A quantity of cut up chicken packages (505) were found to be overweight and underpriced in the amount of .05 cents per package. (This item was not included in above 714 reweighings). This item had been delivered to the market from out of state with the weight and price label attached.

The Andover shopper can purchase food items with the assurance of realizing receipt of honest measure.

Numerous reweighings were made on; bread, milk, cream, butter, oleo, cheese, vegetables, candy, etc.

Shoppers watching me weighing fibre milk cartons thought I had lost my sanity. Several shoppers asked me how I could determine if the carton contained a full quart by using a scale. It was explained that milk is purchased from the farmer, or producer, at a controlled price per hundredweight and is processed all along the line using weight measurements for quantity determinations. The gross weight of one quart of milk weighs 2 pounds, 3 9/16 ounces, while a two quart carton should weigh 4 pounds, 7 ounces. A one gallon carton must weigh 8 pounds 13 13/16 ounces. Milk cartons found to be wet at the base should be left in the case and not purchased. From time to time, "leakers" are evident in the cooler cases. It should also be mentioned that cream cartons are also filled by weight. The fact that heavy cream weighs less than light cream startles many. The greater the butterfat content the less amount of fluid milk. Light cream contains 18 percent fat while heavy cream contains 35 percent fat.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

I would like to publicly commend our Town Dog Officer, Don Porter. When I called him about our lost puppy, he was courteous, helpful and thorough. Don discovered "Joki" miles from where we'd been searching, and our family is eternally grateful to him.

Sarah B. Bullard

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

I believe Article 62 of the Andover Warrant which would prohibit the sale of non-returnable or disposable beverage containers should receive serious consideration. The prohibition of the sale of this type of container will not only decrease town litter, but also provide some relief at the dump.

The report of the dump study committee as reported in the Jan. 28, 1971 TOWNSMAN, stated in part " -- unless people become less wasteful, the cost of operating a disposal facility will continue to be high."

I realize the increasing tax rate of the town refelects many problems, but this is an important area where we as residents of the town could show our concern by becoming less wasteful and thereby decrease a portion of the service required from the town.

Off The Top Of The Desk

The telecast of the flight of Apollo 14 had a local touch on a national network.

Speaking of Apollo 14 and local affiliation, we imagine Former Supt. of Schools and Mrs. Edward I. Erickson watched the entire flight quite intently.

The former administrator became friendly with Commander Alan B. Shepard's family when he was a member of the Derry, N.H. school system.

They have kept communications over the years.

The state's 131 fairs attracted 2,247,387 spectators in 1970, a new attendance record, according to an annual report by the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture.

E. Gerry Mansfield, director of the department's Division of Fairs, announced that the total exceeded by 104,664 the previous peak reached in 1969. The seven leading fairs, in attendance, were in the following order: Eastern States Exposition, Springfield; Topsfield; Brockton; Great Barrington; Tri-County Fair at Northampton; Barnstable, and Marshfield. These fairs each operate for a week or longer. Many of the others are one-day Grange, 4-H Club or community fairs, although a number of the so-called "Hill Town" fairs in the western part of the state run for three days.

In lauding the hundreds of volunteer workers who make the fairs possible, Director Mansfield called fairs "the best entertainment and educational value available."

Ernest A. Lucci, deputy commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development, had this comment: "The fairs are far and away the biggest tourist attraction the Commonwealth has.

"But," he added, "overshadowing their substantial contribution to the economy is their vital role in the development and promotion of essential programs for uncounted thousands of the state's young people. These are programs of education and achievement that could not be duplicated in any other fashion, or by the expenditure of vast public sums."

The Badger Company, Inc., a subsidiary of Raytheon Company, has been awarded a multimillion dollar contract by Texaco Trinidad, Inc., a subsidiary of Texaco, Inc., to construct a 90,000-barrel-a-day desulphurization facility at the company's Pointe-a-Pierre refinery in Trinidad.

The new facility is designed to manufacture desulphurized fuel oils to meet low-sulphur requirements for fuel oil on the U. S. East Coast.

Three major units are included in the project: a 100,000-barrel-a-day vacuum distillation unit, an 80,000-barrel-a-day hydrotreater, and a 250-ton-a-day sulphur recovery unit.

The Trinidad desulphurization project is another step in Texaco's worldwide efforts to provide petroleum products compatible with environmental needs. Low-sulphur fuel oils help safeguard the quality of our air by reducing its sulphur dioxide content.

Site preparation has already begun within the present boundaries of the 350,000-barrel-a-day refinery. The project is scheduled for completion late in 1972.

Students In Hub Symphony

Two young musicians from Andover High have been selected to perform in a Boston Symphony Hall concert Feb. 18, under the baton of renowned composer, arranger and conductor Morton Gould.

Edward S. Grigoli, A.H.S. clarinetist, and Joseph P. Normandy, who sings first tenor, will participate in the second annual American Youth Performs concert, highlighting the outstanding musical talents from 80 eastern Massachusotts high schools. The program is sponsored by American Airlines and will be hosted by Dr. William Ohrenberger, superintendent of the Boston Public Schools.

The hour-long concert on Thursday evening, Feb. 18, will feature a 106-piece symphonic band and a 126-voice chorus. John J. Markarian, coordinator of the concert, said that the concert participants represent the cream of high school musicians in the area. Superintendent Ohrenberger called American Youth Performs a cultural organization dedicated to providing a launching program for young musicians and said he was proud that the Boston Public Schools could take such a substantial part in it.

American Youth Performs is a nation-wide program directed by noted tenor Charles Abdoo under the auspices of American Airlines, to recognize and encourage the talents of local high school students.

At the moment, school administrators seem to have a corner on musical talent here in Andover. Ed Grigoli is the son of Music Director Ed Grigoli, and Joe Normandy is the son of Sanborn School Principal Joseph Normandy.

Bargaining Progresses

Negotiations between the school committee and the Andover Education Association, representing the professional staff, have been proceeding very satisfactorily, according to Mrs. Virginia Cole, head of that board's subcommittee on negotiations.

She said many of the working conditions in the contract have already been settled.

In bargaining on the salary scale, the school committee offered a 5.3 percent overall increase on Tuesday. The AEA rejected this offer and urged a scale with an overall 7 percent increase, which the school committee negotiator rejected. These constitute the fourth round of proposals and counterproposals.

The remaining unresolved issues, according to Mrs. Cole, include teachers' requests for unlimited accumulated sick leave, an additional personal leave day, and additional pay for coaches, and, on the school committee side, requests to remove pay additional to the regular salary scale for guidance counselors and other specialists, and a statement of principle that any additional money put into extra-curricular activities go into areas other than athletics.

The teams meet again this afternoon for further negotiating through their spokesmen.

TAC Bringing Name Group For Concert On Feb. 28

TAC, (Teenage Adult Collaborative) is bringing a name group -- "Sea Train" -- to Andover for a rock concert on February 28. "Sea Train" is a five member group who record for Capitol records, playing the organ, drums, guitar, bass and electric violin or flute.

TAC, the adult-youth communications collaborative of town officials, community and student leaders has booked the Capitol Records recording stars for a Sunday afternoon concert at the high school gym as a musical event for Andover's young and not-so-young, and to raise money for three purposes.

The first $500 profit will go to underwrite the expenses of TAC's continued operation, including the services of a behavioral scientist at the bi-weekly talk and planning sessions.

Selectman (and TAC man) Roger Collins explains that profits over $500 will help two causes that TAC members feel are very important:

(1) Project Care -- a group of Andover High School youth who are working to set up a hot-line for the Greater Lawrence Drug Program, and getting themselves trained to help maintain it, with the help of Dr. James O'Shea;

(2) the renovations fund of the new SAC Drop-In Center, the McArdle Building on Central St., which the town is renting at cost from Danton Trust. SAC members are trying to earn and raise approximately $2000 for necessary renovations.

Collins said that 1500 tickets have been printed and are being sold in the Andover secondary schools, through TAC members, and at the Andover Savings Bank. Bank president Robert Henderson is treasurer of the event.

Collins said that putting on the concert was proving to be a real collaborative effort with the young people and adults working together to provide a first-class musical event for Andover youth and to attract community support for worth causes.

"If this concert is a real success," Collins suggested, "we can go ahead and bring more name groups to town." He added that "Sea Train", which has performed recently at Mt. Hermon School and Boston University, was a reputable group with a solid musical reputation, and that "the kids in TAC were delighted we could get them." Collins said the Sunday afternoon event was not going to be a dance, and was not trying to attract attendance outside the community. "It's going to be a concert, with the supervision and backing of adults as well as young people."

TAC hopes to sell all 1500 tickets and to sell them right here in Andover. The ticket sales burden falls on TAC's teenage members, but they will have the help of Project Care and SAC members, who will gain financial support for their projects if the concert is well attended.

They also have the cooperation of the Andover Police Department, sharing their plans well in advance. Police officers who came to last week's TAC meeting to participate in discussions were also helpful in talking about concert plans. They said that with a little instruction and supervision from the pro's, young people could take on a big share of controlling the parking lot traffic for the concert.

Dr. James O'Shea's reaction: "When people get together and work together, it bridges the communication gap (an initial aim of TAC) and lots of good things happen."

Music To Our Ears

By Edward P. Grigoli

Louis Armstrong (born 1900) the most famous traditional jazz trumpet virtuoso of all time.

There are two contradicting stories about his start as a trumpet player. One is that he started on the bugle in a reform school (Waif's Home), which later led to the cornet. The other is that "Bunk Johnson", himself a famous jazz cornetist, taught Louis how to play, and by the time he was eleven years old he was learning how to play the blues.

His rise to fame was one of continuous success. During the years before he became a band leader, he played with top jazz musicians, such as: Joe "King" Oliver, Sidney Bechet, Joe Lindsey, Kid Ory, Clarence Williams, Bunk Johnson, Lil Harden (his second wife) a fine pianist, Fletcher Henderson, Jack Teagarden, Barney Bigard, Earl Hines, Joe Bushkin, Bob McCracken, Trummy Young, Cozy Cole and many others.

Louis Armstrongs' worldwide influence is not only as a great jazz virtuoso, but also as a singer, entertainer and show business personality.

He has been named the Ambassador of Jazz all over the world, his movies number quite a few (Pennies from Heaven, Glory Alley, Artists and Models, Hello Dolly, etc.) and he has won many awards as trumpeter and vocalist.

The musicians he worked with affectionately nicknamed him "Kid Louis" "Dippermouth" and "Satchmo".

His style of melodic and harmonic improvisations, successfully combined a tense and spontaneous emotional expression.

Although it is presently said that there are times when he sacrificed jazz for showmanship, his name still and always will remain a household word when discussing the great names of traditional jazz.

REAP Program In Effect

Planning sessions are now being held on how best to use the new Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) to improve and protect the environment for the benefit of all, according to Robert A. Leland, Essex County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

As part of the environmental improvement program of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, REAP has been cited by Secretary of Agriculture, Clifford M. Hardin as an example of the new direction USDA is pursuing.

REAP is funded in every agricultural county in the Nation, and in this area is under the supervision of Clark H. Gowen, Chairman of the Essex County ASC Committee. Farmers and others participating in REAP projects will in most cases pay an equal, or more than equal amount of the costs.

The Essex County ASC Committee will work not only with farmers, but also other community interest groups, including city and local governments, to determine priority for agricultural conservation projects with both rural and urban benefits. These benefits could include cleaner water, purer air, improved open space, recreational opportunities, better wildlife habitat and similar environmental improvements.

REAP is a continuation of the familiar Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) with stronger emphasis on rural-urban cooperation, on improvement of the total environment, and on practices with direct benefits to the public.

Farmland Sold Here

Well over a million dollars has been paid for some 173.39 acres of Andover farmland.

The Franklin Trust of Boston acquired the Shattuck and Hagopian farms. Atty. Thomas G. Taylor was the purchaser for a client whom he declined to identify. He also said that future plans for the area are indefinite.

The acquisition is in addition to the land which the Franklin Trust already owns. In Dec. 1969 it made a $1 million purchase from the Lilly Construction Corp., Allston, of 97 acres of the Lewis farm on Laurel Lane and 94 acres of the Shattuck farm on Old River Road, Andover, which the Lilly company had bought in 1968.

The main part of the buy was from Mrs. Catherine G. Shattuck, consisting of four parcels totalling 122.73 acres for a consideration of $981,842.

Five divided interests among the beneficiary owners of the Hagopian property abutting the Shattuck land, Chandler Road and Brundrett Ave., totalling 47.39 acres, has been sold by Michael and Vera Konjoian of Andover as guardians, Eva Akillian of Watertown, Mary Marderosian of Worcester, Barbara Yerghtian of Franklin and Elizabeth Sargavakian of Waltham for $322,229 according to the deeds recorded at the Northern Essex registry office at Lawrence.

An additional 3.27 acres owned by Michael and Vera Konjoian, off Chandler Road, was sold for $27,775.

Folk Musical Volunteers Sought

"Tell It Like It Is" -- a folk musical about God -- is being produced at the Unitarian-Universalist Church in Andover, and volunteers are needed -- men and women, boys and girls -- all of whom like to sing.

Described by its composer as "country folk rock", the musical will be presented in late Spring, in conjunction with the Church's annual art festival. Musical Director is Robert Goodwin of Central St.

The musical has solo parts for persons of many ages as well as a chorus that Mr. Goodwin hopes will reach at least 50 voices.

Rehearsals for the musical are being held each Sunday from 5-6:30 p.m. at the Church on Lowell St. "Anyone who likes to sing will find a happy place in this production," Mr. Goodwin stated.

"Tell It Like It Is" is the creation of Ralph Carmichael, whose home is in California and Kurt Kaiser of Dallas, Texas. The two men commuted between each other's homes for over a year during the writing of the lyrics. Production took place in Dallas, featuring the Kaiser Singers (Baylor Choir) and was recorded by a nationally-known recording company.

Merrimack Special Courses

Merrimack Valley Law Enforcement Personnel will have the opportunity to attend tuition-free courses in Criminal Law, French, and Spanish beginning Feb. 22 it has been announced by Merrimack College President, Rev. John R. Aherne, O.S.A.

The Law Enforcement Personnel courses at Merrimack College will be held in conjunction with the City of Lawrence under the provisions of $12,240 grant from the federal and state governments. These funds were awarded by the State Committee on Law Enforcement and Administration of Criminal Justice under the Federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act. Merrimack College will contribute $8,160 to the program to help in meeting the cost of offering tuition-free courses in Criminal Law, French, and Spanish.

The establishment of the courses for Merrimack Valley law enforcement personnel was brought forth by Harry S. Weinroth, City Planner in Lawrence and Col. Earl V. Brown, Assistant to the President at Merrimack College.

By offering courses in Criminal Law, French, and Spanish, Merrimack in a joint effort with the City of Lawrence seeks to enable law enforcement personnel throughout the Merrimack Valley to gain a greater fluency in language in order to facilitate communication and rapport with the population they are guarding. The course in Criminal Law is designed to help the law enforcement personnel to keep abreast of current developments and procedural changes in criminal law.

The Law Enforcement Personnel courses which will be conducted on a tuition-free basis is open to all interested police officers, and others associated with law enforcement in the Merrimack Valley. The fifteen-week courses which will also include free texts will begin on Feb. 22. College credits will be awarded upon successful completion of the courses.

Because of the great need for Spanish speaking police officers and court officials, Merrimack will offer two separate classes in Spanish. One class will meet on Mondays and Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and the second class on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Each of these classes will conduct the same type of course in Spanish with emphasis on the spoken language.

The class in French will meet on Monday and Thursday from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and will also emphasize spoken skills.

The Criminal Law course will meet on Tuesday from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. This course will include the basic concepts of criminal law with special attention to pre-trial procedures conducted by the police.

The courses will be taught by Merrimack College faculty members Prof. Olga P. Karmatz of Marblehead; Prof. Richard A. Boulanger of North Andover; and Col. Earl V. Brown of Boxford.

SNOW, ICE AND SPLASH were the weather ingredients this week as local residents suffered through more winter than they cared for. The frozen mounds of snow have narrowed town streets, opened up huge pot holes and created traffic hazards. This view of Park Street in the rear of the town hall gives an idea of the congestion.

Library Materials Controversy Looms

The finance committee sat perched together in a row like so many herring gulls on a housetop, benevolently regarding the school committee's budget proceedings last week.

But Chairman Albert Greenberg livened things up during discussion of library materials, by commenting that West School Building Committee Chairman James St. Germain was making a "grandstand play -- he wants to turn money back to the town from the West School Building Addition budget which is earmarked for library materials."

Greenberg said that $25,000 of the money St. Germain's committee wants to turn back to the town is earmarked in the building committee budget for library materials which the school does not have for its pupils. What's more, according to Greenberg, if the building committee gives the library money to the West School as its own budget directs, the town will get 40 percent reimbursement; if the building committee turns it back to the town, and the library materials have to be bought out of the school budget, there is no reimbursement at all.

Greenberg told reporters after the meeting that the same charge must be levelled at the high school building committee which withheld $19,000 from the high school library budget, in the same way. The issue rose over Library Director Anetta Freedman's budget item for $19,000 for the high school library, for the missing books.

Some action may be in the offing. Greenberg put himself on record at the school committee meeting as promising to get the high school's $19,000 and the West School's $25,000 from the building committees -- or, failing that, to put the money into the school budget. If the library and AV materials are bought from the building committee's budget the town will get 40 percent reimbursement from the state, according to the head of the town's watchdog committee.

This part of the meeting would have been even more colorful had not James St. Germain, wearing his hat as the Doherty Addition Building Committee chairman, exited a half hour earlier with the architect, after discussion of how to inform the townspeople about the Doherty Addition plans before town meeting.

Both the Doherty building committee chairman and the FinCom chairman enjoy the reputation of being articulate spokesmen for their own point of view, and the Stowe meeting room would have been a lively place indeed if the issue had been joined when both were onstage.

Dr. Katz Will Be Radio Guest

Dr. Richard A. Katz, chairman of the Andover school committee, will be the guest on "Andover Roundtable," a panel program broadcast by WPAA, 91.7 on the FM dial, Sunday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Katz will discuss school department matters, along with articles scheduled for discussion and action at the March town meeting.
